THOUGHT and COMMENT

MITCHELL AND THE NORGE

Successful conclusion of the Polar flight of the dirigible Norge and the equally noteworthy exploit of the Byrd heavier-than-air expedition, must have been infinitely gratifying to "Billy" Mitchell, one time assistant chief, and late colonel of the Army Air Service, who was suspended for insubordination after a sensational court-martial. Under the circumstances, one reasonably might excuse the fiery colonel a few "I-told-you-so's," for the practicability of Arctic flying was almost as much a hobby with him as criticism of the General Staff.

More than four years ago, Colonel Mitchell predicted sixty-five hour dirigible service from New York to Peking, by way of the northern route. He it was who chose the Alaska-Bering Sea itinerary for the Round-the-World fight; and one of this numerous disagreements with the General Staff grew out of this instance that the Department should lay claim to Wrangell Island and Grantland, on the ground of prior discovery.

Mitchell asserted that solution of the problem of rapid circumnavigation of the globe lay in taking advantage of the much shorter circumference at the poles, and insisted that those bodies of land in the Arctic regions eventually would be of inestimable value as landing places, just as points of rock in mid-Pacific now are prized as coaling stations for warships. Incidentally, the colonel openly deplored the action of the United States Government in signing away its claim to North Greenland at the time of the purchase of the Virgin Islands from Denmark.

About the only thing Mitchell got for his pains then was ridicule, though his prophecies seem less fantastic today. The events of recent weeks serve to emphasize in rather a startling way, too, the tomb-like silence maintained by Colonel Mitchell since his involuntary retirement from active service. At that time there were many who predicted Mitchell out of the Army would be freer to fight the battles of the Air Service, and that he would do more as a civilian than as a soldier to further the cause of national aviation.

Unfortunately, this has not proved to be the cause. To the public at large, the Fighting Colonel's chief charm, aside from his picturesque "pink pants" and Prince of Wales swagger, apparently lay in his penchant for criticizing the powers that be. Lacking an official status, lacking the machinery for stirring up the animals which was provided him in the character of an Army officer defying the higher-ups, Mitchell's power to attract and hold the great American audience has weakened.

This is to be regretted, but there is consolation in the thought that, regardless of whether Colonel Mitchell is mute or garrulous, aviation now has reached a point where it is too important to be neglected. And that this is true is due in no small part to Mitchell himself.

W. D. Sells Will is Filed for Probate

The will of the late W. D. Sells, of Richmond, was filed for probate in the Superior Court at Martinez yesterday by Tarr N. Calfee, attorney for the estate. Mrs. Alphretta Sells, the widow is the executrix and the sole beneficiary of the estate which consists of $4000 in property in this city.

City Traffic Officer and Mrs. Edward Baker and infant daughter have returned from a two week's outing to Mt. Lassen National park, Pennsylvania avenues, costing $75.

ANNEX NOT TO JOIN EL CERRITO OIL FIELDS THREATENED BY HUGE GRASS FIRE

FELLOWS AND OIL FIELD IN PATH OF FIRE

Twenty Thousand Acres of Rich. Grazing Land Already Have Been Razed by Flames

(By Universal Service)
BAKERSFIELD, June 15.—The town of Fellows and the rich oil fields surrounding it are threatened by a destructive grass fire which at a late hour tonight was eating its way south from the Temblor hills. The conflagration has destroyed 20,000 acres of rich grazing area and it is feared that additional damage is imminent.

A slight shift in the wind will direct the flames from their southward course and sweep into the Fellows fields, officials announced tonight.

It is believed that two homesteads were destroyed in the path of the flames.

No definite toll of damage can yet be made, as the vast blackened area is still a smoldering smoking inferno.

A large force of fighters from Taft, McKittrick, Maricopa and other Kern county areas have answered the emergency call for assistance sent out by rangers.

Records Broken At Local Library

May circulation statistics just completed at the public library show a circulation of 20,111 from the main library and the three neighborhood branches. This figure is a gain of 2000 for the same month last year, and the total circulation for the year already shows a gain of over 30,000. However, complete figures for the year will not be available until the fiscal year ends on June 30.

Miss Nora McNeill and Miss Alice Greathouse of the library staff attended the recent meeting of California librarians at Long Beach. They report a large attendance and many distinguished speakers.

Such committees are to be appointed in each state and are the outgrowth of a national cooperation between the American Library Association and the National Congress of Parent and Teachers.

Huge Airship Being Built

(By Universal Service)
BERLIN, June 15.—The Zeppelin works at Friedrichshafen, have started the construction of the biggest airship in the world, which will be driven by a new fuel gas discovered by Dr. Lepertz of the Zeppelin works.

The new fuel gas is non-explosive, is the same weight as air and thus keeps the weight of the airship the same at all times. This means greater speed and security as well as longer flights than are possible with heavy gasoline.

The new airship will be one and a half times as large as the Los Angeles when it is completed in the fall of 1927.

Four building permits totaling $3,225 were issued yesterday by acting City Building Inspector A. J. Hurley.

A permit to erect a one-story cottage, costing $3,000, on the south side of Macdonald avenue between Key boulevard and Humboldt street was issued to Ida Scholz. H. D. Birmingham is the contractor.

Edgar L. McDowell secured a permit to build a one-car garage costing $100 on the north side of Esmond avenue between Lassen and Ventura streets.

J. H. Pettit secured a permit to build a store shed on the east side of Eighth street between Lucas and Lincoln avenues, costing $50.

J. O. Wallin is contractor for a garage to be erected by Mrs. Mary E. Wallin on the west side of Sixth street between Ripley and Ventura streets, costing $75.

TINNING TO ENTER RACE IN AUGUST

Rumors that have been about for the past week that A. B. Tinning would not be a candidate to succeed himself as district attorney were set at rest yesterday, when he made the formal announcement that he would file his nomination papers when the time arrives.

Tinning is a native of Contra Costa, received his education in the public schools of the county, and after graduation went to an eastern university, where he took the law course, receiving the degree of Bachelor of Laws.

He returned to his home county and entered the private practice of law, and soon afterwards was elected as the district attorney. At the conclusion of his first term, he was re-elected without any opposition.

At the present time, there is no other candidate in the field against Tinning.

Sixty Homes to be Built in Concord

MARTINEZ, June 15.—Rose Bros. local contractors, have just announced the purchase of a large tract of land opposite the Mt. Diablo high school at Concord and will start immediately upon the building of sixty homes, which will be erected at an approximate cost of $250,000.

This will be welcome news to Concord, as that city is now faced with an acute housing shortage that has led to the organization of a community council in order to induce builders to invest in home property.

E. E. Rose declares that as soon as the preliminary survey is completed the work on the new homes will start.

Mother-in-law Loses Damage Suit

(By Universal Service)
NEW YORK, June 15.—Mrs. Elsie Hinman, Dula today was awarded $100,000 damages from her mother-in-law, Mrs. Josephine Dula, from the alienation of the affections of the plaintiff's husband, Robert L. Dula. She had sued for $250,000.

Attorneys for the older Mrs. Dula, who is the widow of the tobacco magnate, asked that the verdict be set aside as contrary to the weight of the evidence. Judgement was reserved and both sides were given until next month to file briefs.

It was announced that if the verdict is not set aside an appeal will be taken.

"I am just as well pleased as though the verdict were for a million," said the younger Mrs. Dula. "Vindication was all I wanted."

COUNCIL ASKS THAT PAVING BE REPLACED

City to Hold up Payment on Paving Costing $206,701 Until Work is Repaired

Streets recently paved in the Pullman district which represent a total cost of $206,701 will not be accepted by the Richmond city council unless the work is replaced or put in first class condition according to a statement made yesterday by City Councilman E. J. Garrard, chairman of the street committee of the city council.

Declaring that a great deal of the pavement was in a bad condition Garrard expressed a doubt as to the possibility of repairing the pavement without tearing up the entire pavement and relaying it.

According to Garrard the trouble with the pavement is due to the manner in which the base or foundation was laid. Opening the street during the wet weather permitted water to get underneath the base and undermine the complete foundation of the street according to Garrard.

The undermining of the base has caused the street surface to break and the street is deteriorating fast according to Garrard. It is reported that notice has been served on the Northern Paving company through George N. Curtis of Los Angeles, president of the company that the street work will not be paid unless the base on the streets are corrected. Garrard states that the company has promised to repair the street but that no definite action has been taken by the company.

No complaint is found with the wearing surface which is used under a license from the National Pavement corporation.

Street work which is included in the two contracts which the street committee approved to approve include portions of Thirty-seventh, Thirty-ninth, Forty-first, Forty-second, Ohio, Center, Florida and Waller streets for which the contract price was $121,132.53 and portions of Ohio, Center, Florida, Waller, Wall, Thirty-third, Thirty-fifth and Beck streets for which the contract price was $85,569.35.

The streets are paved with three inches of black base and two inches of National wearing surface.

Some objection has also been raised on the condition of Macdonald avenue from Twenty-third street to San Pablo avenue according to Garrard. Some difficulty was encountered in the paving of this street however which prevented complete cross rolling due to the street car tracks in the center of the street.

In a meeting with the city council in committee session Monday night, Walter Heinicke, general manager of the National Pavement corporation which holds the patents on the National topping told the council that in the future his company would construct its own plant on the job and mix the topping material for delivery to the contractor. He also stated that the company would keep its own inspectors on the job if the company's paving is used in the future in this city.

Heinicke stated that the contractor and not the mixture was to blame for the condition of the street. He informed the council that the company would use every possible means in the future in preventing a repetition of the conditions.

City to Pay Final Respects To Memory of E. E. Grow at Final Rites This Afternoon

With the Kiwanis club of Richmond in charge of the services, funeral rites for Edward E. Grow for the past two years city building inspector, will be conducted from the Wilson and Kratzer funeral chapel this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Out of respect for the city official, all offices of the city will be closed tomorrow afternoon, according to an announcement made yesterday afternoon by City Manager James A. McVittie.

Rev. Frank A. Woten, pastor of the First Christian church will officiate at the services. Rev. Woten, who has been on a vacation, communicated with the Kiwanis club of which he is chaplain and stated that he would return to Richmond in time to

(By Universal Service)
SACRAMENTO, June 15.—Deportation of twenty-six Italian prison inmates for whom paroles recently were voted was announced today by the State Board of Prison directors. United States Immigration authorities will send nineteen paroled prisoners to Mexico, two to Canada, two to Italy and one each to Switzerland, Sweden and Greece.

CABINET OF FRANCE QUILTS

PARIS, June 15.—Premier Briand and his entire cabinet, tonight the battle-scarred veteran of Pennsylvania politics became so riled that he flatly contradicted himself on several occasions.

From the testimony of Vare of his principle backers, Thomas F. Watson and Harry A. Mackey, the committee drew the following:

1. Vare admitted signing Greenfield's note for $100,000, because Greenfield wanted to make "additional contributions to his campaign." This was in addition to Vare's "personal expense account" of $71,000.

2. Vare stated that he signed another note for $50,000 with his brother-in-law, George D. Grove, and later declared that he signed the note alone.

3. King Wolfe, entrusted with the management of the Vare campaign in Armstrong county, "dropped" into a Pittsburgh political club with $1,000 in cash. When he became conscious again his face was battered in and his $1,000 was gone.

4. Thomas Watson, custodian of the Vare funds in Philadelphia, kept over $231,000 in cash in a $75 safe that "any good burglar could crack in 10 minutes with a stick of dynamite."

5. Watson is in the habit of strolling around the Quaker City with $40,000 or $50,000 cash money in his pockets.

Prodded and raked by the merciless examination of Senator Jim Reed, committee chairman, Vare and Watson were "grilled" in a manner that exceeded anything yet attempted by the committee.

Vare who admitted last night that a seat in the Senate was his "life's ambition," was plainly worried and flustered despite his years of "hard-boiled" political campaigning. He left the witness stand with a sigh of relief.

Watson was the calmer of the two, but his inability to supply the necessary details of his own financial operations so enraged Reed that at one point he gave up the questioning and strode from the room.

Later he stopped Watson abruptly and called the other committee members into a secret conference in the corner of the room. At its conclusion Watson was summarily dismissed from the stand.

Negro Lynched In Nashville

(By Universal Service)
NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 15.—Primus Kirby, 26, a negro, was taken from the authorities here today and hanged. He shot and seriously wounded Ed Ringhurst, Louisville and Nashville railroad fireman. He is in the hospital with bullet wounds in his abdomen.

The hanging, which occurred near Guthrie, was witnessed by only a few men.

REALTOR WAS "GOOD ANGEL" FOR W. S. VARE

Vare Admits That Real Estate Man Added $125,000 to His Fund of $596,410

(By Universal Service)

WASHINGTON, June 15.—Albert M. Greenfield, a prosperous realtor of Philadelphia, who came across with $125,000 mostly in cash, was the "good angel" of the $596,410 campaign fund which helped win the Republican Senatorial nomination for Rep. William S. Vare, political "boss" of Philadelphia.

Vare himself made this disclosure to the Senate "slush fund" committee, during an hour of scorching examination in which sylvan politics became so riled that he flatly contradicted himself on several occasions.

From the testimony of Vare of his principle backers, Thomas F. Watson and Harry A. Mackey, the committee drew the following:

1. Vare admitted signing Greenfield's note for $100,000, because Greenfield wanted to make "additional contributions to his campaign." This was in addition to Vare's "personal expense account" of $71,000.

Hammond Aids National Press Club to Build Its New $10,000,000 Home

John Hays Hammond, internationally prominent as an engineer is president of the National Press Building Corporation, a holding company, which is erecting a $10,000,000 club house and office building in Washington, D. C. Newspapersmen from all parts of the country belong to the National Press Club. The structure will be the largest privately owned building in the national capital.

CITY TO START WORK ON SPUR

Construction on the roadbed of that portion of the spur track to the inner harbor owned by the city, will begin today, according to an announcement made by City Engineer E. A. Hoffman yesterday afternoon.

Grading of the roadway from Dock street to the Municipal Wharf No. 2, in anticipation of the building of the spur track by the Santa Fe railroad over its property to connect with the tracks to be owned by the city, will be begun so that no obstacle will be placed in the way of hurrying the construction of the spur, written consent for which has been obtained by the railroad company and surveying for which has already started.

Local Elks Will Visit Sacramento

The Richmond lodge of Elks, accompanied by the Eastbay lodges of the order, will go to Sacramento on Saturday to inspect the new Elks building recently erected in that city. There will be two special trains for the lodges; one will leave the Richmond Southern Pacific station at 3:40 p. m. Saturday and the other train will leave Oakland on the Sacramento, Short Line railroad at the Fortieth and Shasta street station at 2:40.

It is expected that at least 600 Elks will make the journey and the Sacramento lodge has sent word telling the Eastbay aggregation that a big time is assured.

The Caldwell quartette, of San Francisco entertained the local lodge members last night with a group of popular selections.

The picnic committee, Harry Stow in charge, reported all is ready for the big picnic to be held on June 27, at Ramona park. Elks and their invited guests will be welcomed at this event. Admission is by card only.

Exalted Ruler James Stewart presided at last night's meeting. On next Tuesday evening candidates will be balloted upon and on the following Tuesday a class of candidates will be initiated.

VOTERS NOT IN FAVOR OF MOVE TO ENTER CITY

107 Voters in Favor of Move While 136 Wish to Remain Unincorporated

Hemmed in by cities on three sides and the bay on the fourth the Richmond Annex has decided to remain a law unto itself and will continue as "no man's land." Voters of the section, two hundred and forty-three of them, went to the polls yesterday and voted 107 for and 136 against becoming a part of the City of El Cerrito.

According to the figures of the election held on December 18, 1925, 78 wanted to the join the City of Richmond and 132 were not in favor of the move.

The election held yesterday combined with that of last December seems to definitely decide that the Annex wishes to remain "no man's land" and do its own governing.

Work On Ferry Road Progresses

Work on the paving of Western Drive near the Blake Brothers quarry on the way to the Richmond-San Rafael Ferry is progressing and will be completed in another week, according to a statement made by City Engineer E. A. Hoffman yesterday. The present construction consists of grading and graveling the roadbed and it is expected that the street will be paved at a later date.

The improvements are being made to facilitate traffic on the street. In the past all traffic in both directions was forced to travel on one side of the street, thereby congesting the roadway. A road constructed on the north side of the car tracks will separate traffic and will remove the present hazards.

Fontes Bound Over To Superior Court

Charged with failure to provide for a minor child, Albert Fontes of Richmond appeared before Justice of the Peace John Roth yesterday morning for a preliminary hearing. He was bound over to the Superior Court and is now being held in lieu of $500 bail. The complaint was signed by Mrs. Florence Fontes.

THE SPORT OF KINGS

The first of a mighty caravan is driving out of the home garage these fine June days, and the 1926 season of automobile touring—the sport of kings—is under way.

In all ages, the privileged classes have had their hobbies. Horse racing, polo and power boats are among the chief diversions of the moneyed people today.

But when all is said and done, the great American sport is touring. From the "tin can tourist," camping along the road, to the limousine parties that pull up before expensive hostleries at eventide, there is fun for everybody and every purse.

No wonder the motor tour is popular. The sweet music made by the resounding slam of the automobile door, the joy of the high road, the delight of stopping wherever and whenever one pleases without regard for vexing timetables—all these and more are part of the lure of this rapidly growing American summer pastime.

This transformation in summer travel has altered entirely the hotel business. The "one night stand" is now the source of income and profit in place of the old-fashioned stay of a week or more. Municipal camping sites and the ubiquitous farm-house accommodations for tourists are another new development.

Every man is a king in this country, or as good as one, and touring is his sport. May its popularity increase, for it harms none and it benefits all.

HEAT THE SCAPEGOAT

When it is hot everything is blamed on the heat. "Crazy with the heat" is an old slang expression which has no more pat application than that by which it is attached to those who make excessive heat responsible for everything from the loss of ball games to the birth of triplets. One cannot doubt that there are numerous cases of heat prostration and that some of them result fatally, but in many of the deaths credited to heat the excess of temperature is responsible only in an indirect way. Bather seeks the cooling river and is drowned—heat. Someone goes to sleep in a hammock which break and the sleeper is perhaps fatally injured—heat. Another suffers an attack of acute indigestion possibly due to eating food that should not be eaten in hot weather—heat again.

Heat brings an abundance of discomfort and it is wise to take precautions to prevent serious results following in its trial, but there is no use becoming alarmed because the temperature hovers around 90 for a week or so. It exceeds that for long periods in the tropics and yet people continue to exist there.

Observe customs of living that all know are suited to hot weather. Somebody has said that heat is a state of mind and it is likely that much of the discomfort is more imaginary than real.

Marriage itself isn't a failure. Usually it is the persons who engage in it that give it a black eye.

The first of the month makes every man feel bilious.

The safety conference has adopted a code and now all that is necessary is to induce the rattle-brained auto drivers to observe it.—Indianapolis Star.

FARM RELIEF LEGISLATION

By GEORGE E. ROBERTS

From The Monthly Bank Letter For June Issued By The National City Bank of New York

Congress at this writing continues in a quandary over agricultural legislation. The Haugen bill, which proposed to set up Government machinery for disposing of farm surpluses in the export trade without affecting home prices and which provided for a fund of $175,000,000 from the Treasury to put the plan into operation, was defeated in the House on May 21 by a vote of 212 to 167. The Tinker and Aswell bills, which along with the Haugen bill had been recommended favorably by the House Agricultural Committee, were withdrawn. Just how the situation is to be patched up this session, if at all, is not yet clear.

Tinker has declared his intention of calling up his bill again, and Representative Aswell has already reintroduced his bill, modified, however, to the extent that it now includes provision for a large loan fund from the Treasury, to be used in promoting co-operative marketing which has been one of the features of the Tinker bill. Thus far at least no provision has been made in the House program for considering these bills. In the Senate, however, the corn belt forces have served notice of their intention to push the bill passed by the House January 26 providing for the creation of a division of cooperative marketing in the Department of Agriculture, amended to include the essential principles of the Haugen bill which had met defeat in the House.

As the Senate bill now stands, it would set up a Federal Farm Board which would administer a fund of $250,000,000 to be appropriated from the Treasury. This board would study the markets and where a surplus over and above domestic requirements was to exist in certain basic agricultural commodities, namely, cotton, wheat, corn, cattle, and swine, or any food product of the last four, except milk and its products (in the case of cotton the requirement is a surplus above the needs of orderly marketing), this board would have power to assess and collect a so-called equalization fee which could be paid out to cooperatives and others who export those products and sell them at a loss compared with prices ruling in the home market. By this plan, so it is contended by advocates of the bill, producers would be able to get rid of their surpluses without disturbing prices in the home market.

Of all these farm "relief" bills that are or have been before Congress, the principles involved in the Haugen bill and the Senate bill sponsored by Senator McNary, are the most objectionable. Both bills would establish what amounts to a Treasury subsidy on certain agricultural products and would involve the Government in price fixing. This country should consider carefully before it embarks on any plan of setting up a Government export corporation to sell foodstuffs to workers in European countries at lower prices than to our own workers at home. Moreover, such artificial stabilization would prove harmful to agriculture itself, because it would tend to stimulate the continuous production of surpluses and thus aggravate the very conditions it was meant to remedy.

Considerably less objectionable is the Tinker bill, which provides for the establishment of a Federal Farm Advisory Board and Farmers Marketing Commission to aid in cooperative marketing of farm products. While the bill provides for an appropriation of $100,000,000 by the Government to be used as a revolving fund from which loans might be made to cooperative organizations, the price fixing feature is eliminated, and the bill has been declared acceptable to the Administration. The plan, however, is elaborate and costly. Least objectionable of all the bills was the original Aswell-Curtis bill, which provided for a Government appropriation of only $10,000,000 and was simply Government aid in promoting cooperative organizations. This bill, however, was not generally regarded as radical enough, and was usually counted out of the running; it has since been re-modeled more along the lines of the Tinker bill, with a provision calling for an appropriation of $140,000,000 from the Treasury.

Proposed Legislation Unnecessary

All of these measures, however, if not definitely harmful are at least unnecessary, as the difficulties against which agriculture has been contending cannot be corrected by price fixing or further extension of agricultural credit. At the bottom of the farm troubles is the fact that production of farm products was overstimulated during the war. New areas were brought under cultivation, and prices of old lands rose to levels which were far out of line with anything that could be sustained once the war shortage in foodstuffs was brought to an end by the return of the soldiers to the fields of Europe. Farmers saddled themselves up with capital charges, based on these inflated land values, which now they have difficulty in meeting since farm products have returned to more normal levels. As for credit facilities, never before has the farmer had so many agencies at his disposal. What with the Federal and joint stock land banks, and intermediate credit banks, and the facilities of the Federal Reserve Banks for the purchase or discount of agricultural paper, the farmer should have been cured long ago if lack of adequate credit were the basis of his ills.

It is, of course, true that the farmer has been at a serious disadvantage since 1920 by reason of the greater fall in prices of his products as compared with the prices of the manufactured goods which he has to buy. These conditions, however, are temporary and are already in the process of correction. They are, nevertheless, being made the basis of much loose talk about the "incurable ills" of the farmer. Figures are cited showing farm income at making unfavorable comparisons with other industries, but usually nothing is said in such comments to bring out the chief incentive to the settlement of our vacant lands, namely, the constant rise of land values throughout the history of the country. Within a lifetime we have seen the prairie lands of Iowa go from $3 and $4 per acre to $200 per acre. These gains are not shown by the annual returns, but they have been a factor in the settlement of the lands, and of course in the increase of production and in the prices of farm products.

Attention is also frequently called to the "drift of people from the farms" and to the declining percentage of farm acreage per capita as though these were alarming symptoms, such comment overlooking the fact that the farmer, like the business man, has been improving his methods of production and is getting a larger per capita output than before. Moreover, all this represents no more than a natural change from a country in which agriculture was originally the dominant industry to one of diversified industries, a normal and desirable change—and of course all to the advantage of agriculture. It is getting a constantly larger home market, while increased agricultural production now must come largely by more intensive farming, and the bringing into use of the less productive lands which were passed over at first—lands requiring large expenditures such as clearing, drainage, irrigation, etc., to fit them for cultivation.

FASHION DESIGNS EMBROIDERIES FOR THE SMART FULL SLEEVE

Motifs of Simple Appeal that May Be Developed in Every Material Suggested by the Style

By MONA MULLEN

OF COURSE, it had to come. The sleeve has just gone on from one degree of beauty and elaboration to another, so that sooner or later the idea of embroidering it would have to be accented. There have been the peasant embroideries of the past few seasons, and out as are shown on this season's sleeves.

The motifs pictured are taken from a transfer which supplies three designs, one right and one left, of each in sizes 16½, 9 and 4 inches. Not only may they be used on sleeves, but on other parts of a frock, the variety of size fitting them for the ornamentation of panels, godets, collars, vestees, etc. On a background of beige or pale tan, the flowers would be effective developed in red and brown worsted, with centers of black, green and yellow. The stems may be in black and the leaves in two shades of green. Fashion likes best to develop the motifs in materials that stand out boldly, so she turns to worsteds, chenilles, chine ribbon, and the rather heavy metal threads. The flowers are of a shape that lends itself to such a development. When finished the effect is somewhat compact, increasing the natural effect of the flower itself. The stitches used are very simple, though the woman who is expert with her needle may combine several different stitches in working up the flowers. The petals may be done in flat satin stitch and then outlined with running stitch if desired. The leaves are effective in one-stitch embroidery.

BROKEN HEARTS of HOLLYWOOD

"BROKEN HEARTS OF HOLLYWOOD" with Louise Oresser is a Warner picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Mutually attracted, Betsy Terwilliger and Hal Chutney arrive in Hollywood as prize winners of newspaper contests for movie try-outs. They are depressed by the number of people seeking work. Movie editors see a mysterious resemblance in Betsy to someone they cannot remember. Hal flops dismally as a cowboy. Betsy witnesses the humiliation of Virginia Perry, erstwhile star, now a fallen woman. Betsy modestly dreams appearing in the abbreviated bathing suit she has been given to wear. She meets McLain, famous screen love me, with janes who pretend to be plaster saints!"

But before the situation could come to a climax, the bark of the director, signalling to the bathing beauties their cue to trip in upon the lawn set, intervened. The habit of work was strong upon these girls; the mental mechanics of earning their daily bread by drabs and drabs made them automatons of discipline. Betsy literally paused at the blonde's throat, to turn and with an instantaneously assumed smile lead the blonde dance around the tank.

Gradually this tongue-tied left her. McLain was so convincingly friendly. Mrs. Perry and Clare seemed to like and respect him. And as they waited for the director to finish his profound impromptu decisions as to the scene action, and for all the other waltz of work that precedes actual shooting to subside, Betsy found herself confiding to him piece-meal—and to Mrs. Perry and Clare, of course, incidentally—the story of her contest success, of her ambitions. It was such a relief to reach sympathetic ears, to have the counsel and advice of experienced lips.

Meanwhile, the bathing girls had congregated in another group nearby and were drawing their own conclusions as to McLain's obvious sudden interest in Betsy. McLain's screen prowess as a heart and home wrecker was the only thing known about him by the riff and raff of studios; and, in the parlance of that atmosphere, he had a "reputation" for a private life that matched his famous screen roles.

Presently the hard work of making a movie picture scene started. Then after time the director rehearsed all hands—parts and extras. The action required of the bathing beauties, including Betsy, was simple enough; at a signal they were to effect a surprise emergence from behind shrubbery into the midst of a garden party given by McLain, run lightsomely around the brink of a lawn pool, and then dive in, while amazed guests, startled by the latest profanity of their host, applaud in delight.

"Ditch the robe, kid!" said Clare.

Betsy kept her bathrobe on during the rehearsals, at a whispered word from Clare that she did not think it would be a surprise.

Then the awful moment came. "O. K. Now we'll grind!" called the director.

"Ditch the robe, kid!" said Clare. Betsy could not restrain the shiver of her body and the whole sale flush of embarrassment that stained it, as she stood now in just the scant swimming suit in the broad sunlight of a California forenoon. Her frightened eyes took comfort in the fact that apparently, not a soul of the men or women on or near the set was paying the slightest attention to her. To one and all, this was but a conventional display in every day's work.

But the bathing girls at hand, hampered now by the wrath of Virginia, took snoring note of her perturbation. Their indifferent friendliness of the beginning had given way now to a certain amount of resentment because of Betsy's continued attitude, inexplicable to them, and because of the championing of the contest girl by Mrs. Perry and Walter McLain.

McLain. He was their cue for easy days.

"Innocence is a great line," whispered one as they awaited the command to enter the set. Ostensibly her remark was intended for the ears of her companion alone, but in reality she deliberately pitched it high enough for all the girls, including Betsy herself, to hear.

"Didja notice how the Great Lover fell for it?"

"Yeh," muttered the slatty blonde cattishly, in the same tone and manner. "I've been hearing that McLain is after fresh conquests, and he's a quick knock-out, believe me, with janes who pretend to be plaster saints!"

Clare, furious, raised her hand and stepped forward to slap the face of the blonde; while Betsy, beside herself with horror at the insinuations, choked back a scream with one tightly clenched little fist, though she could not also stem her quick burst of tears.

But before the situation could come to a climax, the bark of the director, signalling to the bathing beauties their cue to trip in upon the lawn set, intervened. The habit of work was strong upon these girls; the mental mechanics of earning their daily bread by drabs and drabs made them automatons of discipline. Betsy literally paused at the blonde's throat, to turn and with an instantaneously assumed smile lead the blonde dance around the tank.

Betsy, under no such lash of necessity or stern experience, stumbled blindly, haltingly, in their wake; anger and shame had sapped the strength from her young legs, the strength from her body. And when, a few moments later, she dove into the tank with the others, who were ranged equidistant around its rim, she became a victim of fright and pent-up emotion as the shock of the cold water struck her.

Helplessly, she sank to the bottom of the tank, in a dead faint. It was Clare who first saw her plight, and dove to her rescue. Then McLain and Virginia, regardless of the inexorably grinding camera, jumped to the edge of the pool and cried out in their alarm. In an instant the whole set was in an uproar.

Betsy, more dead than alive, was fished to the surface by Clare, with the help of the other girls, now guiltily frightened by the realization of the nearly fatal results of their tormenting.

Studios are ever ready for emergencies. Skilled medical assistance brought Betsy around, and presently she was seated on a fully reclining chair in her dressing room, resting before looking up Hal and starting for home.

Meanwhile, the grinding of the McLain lawn party bathing scene went merrily, it belatedly, ahead on the set below, with Miss Baker, after all, in the swimming girl part for which she had been originally cast until displaced by Betsy's arrival.

And the director, although he had not been able to make too heartless a public display of his wrath because of the almost tragic nature of the happening, had vowed in his heart of hearts, and sworn by all the celluloid gods, that never again would that clumsy, blundering kid who had nearly drowned herself work for him.

His all-seeing eyes had not missed a single detail of her head, spring-low entrance upon the set; her awkward, fumbling pose; her botched dive. And directors remember first impressions when casting future pictures!

CHAPTER VIII.

Marshall, with the race-old wisdom of a hunter of human hearts smiling remotely in the deeps behind the searching frontal glint of his eyes and dripping from his beard words like juice from poison berries, was awaiting the tyroes when they came home at the end of their first studio day.

Marshall read signs as a sailor reads the weather; legs are the barometers of human spirits, even as eyes and faces are the mirrors of the soul. And Betsy and Hal, trudging toward the porch where Marshall stood on the top step, did not stride along with the snap of healthy interest or the sure tread of unimpaired confidence. Their feet were heavy with the glutted downcast mercury of subsided hope; their faces were dull.

"Well, how did you like it? Have a good day?" Marshall beamed. Hal shrugged without replying, but Betsy innocently discovered in Marshall's friendly and encouraging manner an antidote for her blues. She gave him back, wanly, a smile for smile. And when they all were seated on the porch, Betsy frankly confessed the day's dispiriting trials, the while Hal sat in moody silence.

Hal's fists ached to knock from Marshall's eyes the hot greed that gleamed there as he covertly drank in the fresh and unadorned picture of Betsy's young charms; charms that to Hal were as endearing as they were infamous to Marshall.

But other thoughts pushed their way into Hal's mind. While Betsy continued to chat with Marshall, Hal began to ponder the day's events. After their respective mishaps neither Betsy nor he had done a thing except sit around in Cameron's office while that harpist man tried to think of loopeles where they might be squeezed in to earn their salary. But early in the afternoon he had given up and dismissed them with the injunction to report again next morning.

Camp Fire Girls Summer Camps To Accommodate Fifteen Thousand

The swimming hour at one of the Camp Fire Girls Summer Camps.

For some 15,000 parents, at least, the problem of where to send their daughter for her vacation is solved. Within the next few days or weeks nearly one hundred camps, with capacity of from 25 to 100 girls, will open under the leadership of Campfire Girls. The camps are scattered from Maine to California and from Georgia to Washington and are open to all girls between the ages of eleven and eighteen. The most modest of family budgets can provide for them, and the most cautious mother may be assured that her daughter is well taken care of. Last year over 15,000 girls spent one week or more in these vacation camps.

"To make quite sure that parents are put at their ease as to how the girls are getting on," says Miss Dorothy Dorens, director of the Campfire groups of New York and vicinity, "we insist that each girl write home regularly. The very first thing on the program, in fact, after the girls arrive in camp, is a letter or a greeting card to father and mother telling them of their safe arrival. We encourage sending the cards, at least as often as possible, so that the vacation may be a rest for parents as well as daughters. With the rather strenuous program the girls follow, we feel that the greeting cards are perhaps preferable, as the families may be remembered often without too great a tax on the girls' time. After this matter is attended to we try to develop in our girls a self-reliance which will at all times make them able to look after themselves.

"In developing self-reliance, the over-night hiking trips are an essential as well as an exciting part of the Campfire Girls' camp schedules. On these hikes—not so strenuous but what all the girls can join in—the hikers carry their own roll of bedding, build their own fires, cook their own food. Naturally, they are accompanied by experienced and reliable counselors, but encouragement is given the girls to carry on the actual program of the trip themselves.

"The regular daily schedule provides for swimming, boating, nature lore, drilling for posture, hand-craft work, singing and dramatics. Care is also taken that time is left each girl to develop the particular activity in camp which most interests her. We want plenty of opportunity for individual initiative, as well as the display of cooperation and team work.

Registration for Campfire Camps may be made through any local guardian or by writing the national headquarters at 31 East Seventeenth street, New York. The fee ranges from five to ten dollars a week depending on the locality of the camp.

Voters Not in Favor of Move To Enter City

A million dollars and a hundred city blocks of territory have declared most emphatically that they wish to remain rural.

Surrounded by incorporated cities and the Richmond inner harbor, the Annex residents are apparently laughing up their sleeves while the neighboring cities wonder what it is all about.

Richmond wooed and lost, but the coveted damel turned down her big brother on the north with a smile. Then El Cerrito on its eastern boundary pleaded for favor and again no was the answer at the polls.

The Richmond inner harbor is to the west of the section and the city of Albany with a high hill is to the south, so unless the section intends to incorporate as a separate city it will remain just plain country for some time to come.

El Cerrito was particularly anxious to annex the section for the move would have given it control of the State highway. As matters stand now and have for the past years, the motorist can ride along at 35 miles per hour while on his way to Oakland, but must throttle down to 20 miles per hour on his return. The middle of the street is the boundary line. One side is El Cerrito and the other is unincorporated territory which accounts for the variation in the speed limit.

Circulars both in favor and against annexation were freely circulated in the Annex previous to the election. These circulars in one instance told of the advantages to be gained by the citizens of the territory in joining El Cerrito, and in the other in not becoming a part of the city.

English Class to Write on "Richmond"

The twenty-five members of the Richmond Business and Professional Women's English class, being staged every Wednesday night will hand in an original 300 word composition tonight on "Richmond." World's Largest National Park Draws American Travelers North Jasper Park Lodge as seen from Lac Beauvert.

JASPER NATIONAL PARK. Canada's great forest and game reserve, is attracting thousands of Americans this summer to western Canada. This immense area of forest, mountain, and stream, that the Government of Canada has set aside as a playground for the people of the American continent during the past few years has served to bring travelers to the western quarter of the province of Alberta from all sections of the United States in ever increasing numbers. Many Americans from the eastern states, traveling to the Pacific coast, are now taking the northerly transcontinental route through Canada in order that they may have opportunity to view the wonders of Jasper on their way to their destination along the Pacific coast. So great has been the rush of travel from this side of the line that the management of Jasper Park Lodge was compelled, in preparation for the coming season, to increase the accommodation at that picturesque hotel. Reports from railway tourist agents indicate that the number of arrivals at Jasper this season will break all previous records.

Jasper, situated on the western border of Alberta in the heart of the Canadian Rockies, is the largest National Park in the world, having 4,400 square miles of territory within its borders. It is on the Canadian route to the Pacific, the main trans-continental line of the Canadian National Railways winding its way along the picturesque valleys through the center of the Park. Jasper Village, the only community within the bounds of the Park apart from the summer colony which centers on the Lodge, is on this line and automobile and bus service carries visitors from the village to Jasper Park Lodge.

While Jasper affords the visitor all the comforts and luxuries of the most modern of resorts, its great charm for Americans lies in the fact that within its bounds the scenic beauties of the Rockies have been preserved in their natural state. It still has many wonders undiscovered and many heights unclimbed. Its passes, its mountain snows, glaciers, wandering trails, streams, lakes, and canyons, present a field wherein the visitor may experience all the thrill of the explorer, the lure of adventure and the romance of the last frontier. Except for a comparatively few miles in the center of the park there are no motor roads. Travel is on foot or on horseback along the trails that follow the passes winding through the woodlands on the mountain side and emerge in the summer snows above the timber line.

Jasper Lodge was planned to fit into its beautiful natural setting on the shores of Lac Beauvert. Constructed of rough hewn stone, and logs, its exterior harmonizes perfectly with its forest surroundings but there is nothing rough and ready about its appointments. Grouped about the main Lodge are a number of small bungalows in which parties of from two to eight who desire the privacy of a separate dwelling are accommodated. Each bungalow has hot and cold running water, baths, telephone, electric light and all of the other comforts and conveniences of the modern hotel.

Within its borders no less than thirty named peaks rise higher than 10,000 feet. These are named peaks only. In addition there are a large number of mountains higher than 10,000 feet that remain unnamed, and many of them unclimbed.

ARIZONA SENDS 25 PRISONERS TO COUNTY JAIL

MARTINEZ, June 15.—Twenty five prisoners, convicted for bootlegging who were arrested, tried and convicted in Arizona, were brought to the county jail here this morning by U. S. Marshall George Maak of Arizona, to serve varying terms under commitment from Federal Judge W. H. Sawtelle's court.

It is reported by the prisoners that the jails of Arizona are filled to an overflowing, which fact necessitated the transfer of prisoners to California prisons. Thirty two prisoners were gathered in a special car and brought to California by the marshal who was assisted by seven deputies. Twenty-five of the number were brought here and the other seven were taken to San Francisco. Although most of the prisoners are first offenders the sentences are exceptionally heavy, only one getting less than one year and others ranging up to three years with accompanying

Silvestrini Final Rites Are Held

Rev. Father Harold Collins officiated at the funeral services for James Silvestrini held at the family home in El Cerrito yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Interment was in St. Joseph's cemetery. Funeral arrangements were under the direction of Bert Curry. Silvestrini, who was an employee of the Stauffer Chemical company, sustained injuries in a fall from a scaffold on which he was working and died last Friday. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Silvestrini, and five children, Elda, Ester, Elsie, Elevo and Lena Silvestrini. The deceased was a native of Italy and was thirty-seven years of age.

FAMOUS OPERA ON SCREEN OF THE CALIFORNIA

Although Victor Herbert, the famous composer, is not here to enjoy it, one of his fondest dreams has at last come true. "Mlle. Modiste," his favorite operetta, which he had ardently desired to see on the screen, has been filmed by Corinne Griffith. The picture comes to the California Theatre for two days starting today.

According to E. M. Asher, in charge of the Corinne Griffith Productions, which made the picture for First National release, the film has been lavishly produced. One of the episodes is a fashion spectacle. Gowns were specially designed for this display, and more than a score of the most beautiful girls in Hollywood acted as mannequins.

Victor Herbert had often expressed a desire to see "Mlle. Modiste" filmed, as he believed that the picture would lend itself particularly well to screen treatment. Norman Kerry plays opposite the star, with Willard Louis in the major comedy role. Others in the cast are Rose Dione, Paulette Duval, Dorothy Cumming, Pat Somerset, Mario Carillo, Vic Potel and others. Robert Z. Leonard directed. Other features on the same program include Hal Roach's comedy "Wife Tamers" featuring Lionel Barrymore and Clyde Cook; "Marvels in Motion"; "International News"; and Larry Canelo, at the organ.

League Preparing For Future War Says Churchman

(By Universal Service)

By A. HAROLD NOON
SAN FRANCISCO, June 15.—"The League of Nations as it is now constituted is preparing for war as much as ever before. The League of Nations started as a 'League of Victors' and it is now clear to its members that it can't accomplish what it set out to do—bring about world peace."

This was the opinion of the league as expressed by his grace, Archbishop Daniel Mannix of Melbourne, who, with a party of high dignitaries of the Catholic church in Australia, arrived here today enroute to the Eucharistic Congress in Chicago.

"Germany said Archbishop Mannix, 'should have been admitted to the league which broke its solemn understanding to do as agreed at Locarno. It is hard to understand the part played by English delegates at the conference.'"

Archbishop Mannix refused to discuss America's attitude regarding the league, declaring that it was an "American problem" to be dealt with by the American people.

"There is no peace in the hearts of those of the league except when it makes for victory," declared the archbishop. "They talk about peace but they don't mean peace. It is wise of America to investigate. An organization whose sole purpose would be to promote peace and good will toward mankind of all nations is needed to eliminate the fires of hate and ill will in Europe."

The general strike in Great Britain had no effect on conditions in Australia, which, according to Archbishop Mannix, has the strongest labor union organization in the world. Politically, the labor government controls all of the states except Victoria which the archbishop believes will be carried at the next election.

The United States and Australia are linked by an affectionate bond of friendship and the wonderful impression made by the American navy during its visit last year, is a lasting one, according to the archbishop.

Archbishop Mannix refused to discuss the prohibition question. He declared that it was a purely American problem. Archbishop Mannix opposed prohibition in Australia.

He declared that he was not a drinking man himself but that he opposed prohibition because it curbed the personal liberties of the peoples. The people, in the opinion of Archbishop Mannix, should decide such questions.

Archbishop Mannix's party include Archbishop P. J. Cullen of Perth; Archbishop J. Duhig, Brisbane; Archbishop M. Sheehan, coadjutor archbishop of Sydney; Bishop J. McCarthy, Bendigo, Victoria; Bishop A. Killian, Port Augusta, South Australia; Right Reverend Monsignor T. Hayden, president of St. Patrick's College, Manly, N. S. W.; Archdeacon W. Doyle of Jamestown, South Australia; Very Reverend V. F. Peters, Maitland; Rev. Father D. Ahearn, Brisbane and Father Bossence, Boulburn, N. S. W.

A banquet and public reception were tendered Archbishop Mannix and his party this evening. They will leave tomorrow morning for Chicago.

A large number of men and women comprising California's pilgrimage to the Eucharistic Congress left here this evening. They will arrive in Chicago on Sunday morning. Many grand officers and officials of the Y. L. L., the Y. M. I. and other Roman Catholic organizations, were among the California delegation, which is in charge of Frank A. McCarthy.

All Standards and Mechanics to Play

Last week's Standard Oil games upset plenty of dope and it is expected that this week's games will do the same thing. Today the All Standard and the Mechanics will tangle at 5 o'clock at the First street diamond and tomorrow night the Barrel House and Refinery will ring around the bases.

Both games should have enough "heart-interest" and "sex-appeal" to hold the attention of the fans.

Lions to Meet in New Hotel in July

That the Lions will probably hold their first July meeting in the new Carquinez hotel was announced at the luncheon held by the club yesterday. The hostelry is expected to be completed by that time and following the opening, the Lions will meet regularly there.

The committee in charge of raising the funds allotted to the Lions club in the Boy Scout drive announced that the club had gone over the top in raising the $800 quota. Several local selections were sung by Mrs. Henrietta Haas of New York City, who is a visitor in Richmond. Wilbur S. Pierce presided at the meeting.

Cancer, its treatment and cure, was explained to the members of the Richmond Den of Lions by Dr. Charles A. Dukes, Standard Oil physician, who has recently returned from a trip to Europe, where he consulted with some of the most prominent medical men.

ITS A FUNNY THING WHAT LOVE WILL DO

A millionaire turned waiter—all for the love of a woman! This is the intriguing theme of "The Grand Duchess and the Waiter," Paramount's gorgeously produced celluloid version of Alfred Savoir's sensational French comedy of the same name, which begins a two days' run at the Richmond Theatre today.

Malcolm St. Clair is said to have turned this scintillating story into a fast and frisky film that maintains a high-pressure laugh tempo all the way through and retains every bit of its original Parisian flavor.

Adolphe Menjou, dashing sophisticate of the screen, has the perfect role of the wealthy French fieu Brummel, whose mad infatuation for the Grand Duchess prompts him to masquerade as a foot waiter so that he can be near her. The role of the Duchess is delightfully and charmingly portrayed by Florence Vidor, who is a vision of naughty loveliness in her breath-taking Parisian gowns and new boyish bob.

The locale of the story is, of course, Paris, the gay French capital, where all things are possible, and there are no traffic regulations. While the greater portion of the action takes place within the walls of a luxurious hotel, there are several gorgeous scenes showing the interior of a magnificent theatre, while a performance is being given and a distinguished audience is looking on. Final scenes center around a quaint, colorful roadhouse. Other features include "Red Pepper," an Al St. John comedy; Grantland Rice "Sportlight"; and "Prizma," the screen magazine.

Traffic Violators Enrich City by $30

Two violators of the state traffic laws appeared before Justice of the Peace John Roth yesterday morning and were fined $30. G. McConnell and R. D. Tuttle, of Oakland, were fined $15 each, for speeding and cutting in, respectively.

The following have been cited to appear before Justice Roth for alleged violations of traffic laws: M. Stenfeld, Emeryville, speeding; L. Wilson, Berkeley, speeding; A. P. Wurz, parking on highway and for driving with defective tires on a truck; P. E. Boyle, Berkeley, speeding; B. Shepard, cutting in; K. R. Wagner, cutting in.

A. J. Hurley Gets Temporary Post as Building Inspector

Arthur J. Hurley, superintendent of construction of the Municipal Natatorium and architect, has been appointed building inspector to fill the vacancy created by the death of City Building Inspector E. E. Grow Monday afternoon. Hurley assumed his duties yesterday. It is understood that the temporary appointment will last until a permanent appointment is made at the beginning of the fiscal year, July 1, when all appointive offices for the next two-year period will be filled, according to an announcement made yesterday by City Manager James A. McVittie.

Hurley has had years of experience as engineer and construction inspector and has been connected with the engineering department of the city. He has also been superintendent of construction for the school board.

Brown and You

BROWN'S a good fellow, but he's different from you. He isn't successful the way you are. He's got a funny taste in clothes. He doesn't understand what makes a good show or a good book. He doesn't golf. He isn't popular, either—Brown. Not the way you are. Oh, Brown is as far removed from you as the North Pole!

But—at that, there are certain things. Both of you feel suddenly old when you see a pack of kids swimming frankly in the creek. Both of you get a tight throat when you watch men hoist the flag. Both of you fiercely want your sons to grow up into fine, respected men. Both of you want to get on, and save money, and cut some kind of figure in the world. Both of you get hungry along about dinner-time.

Not so very different after all. In lots of ways Brown and you are pretty close. In the human, simple things. Has it ever struck you how closely advertising deals with just those simple human things? Advertising gets down to fundamentals—the health of your children, the happiness of your wife, your comfort. It tells ways to save money and time and energy. It touches you in a hundred ways—in the ways that make you and that good fellow, Brown, pretty much alike.

Read the advertising in the newspapers. It is important. It is human and helpful. It is dedicated to Brown and you.

If it's advertised, you can be sure it serves an important home need.

HEAVYWEIGHTS TO GO TWELVE ROUNDS FRIDAY

Ralph Smith, Los Angeles lightweight champion, will collide with Johnny Zeigler, F. McGrath's coming young heavyweight, in a 12 round bout here Friday night. Smith claims the heavyweight championship of the Pacific Coast, and when one scans his record it must be conceded to him without argument. The giant has beaten Leon Chevelier, K. O. two rounds, Jack O'Dare, K. O. one round, Pat Lester, won ten rounds, and many other good heavyweights.

McGrath, a wily old veteran hand of fighters, claims that his fighter will spring a real surprise against Smith, and take the Coast title in this bout like Grant took Richmond.

Young Pancho Villa, the smallest boxer in the world, will tangle with Bobby Max in the six round semi-windup. Villa weighs an even 102 pounds, and he will concede 5 to 8 pounds to Max. However, Villa usually has to give opponents from 10 to 12 pounds, or so without fights, so he is getting used to this sort of thing. In the last six months Villa has beaten all the bantam weights Matchmaker Harry Eagles could find for him, and the little fellow has taken them all easily, but in Mars he will meet an aggressive little Filipino who holds a decision over him.

Jimmy West, veteran Oakland welterweight, who has won his last eleven bouts in a row, will trade punches with Eugene Doyle of Los Angeles, a hard socking southerner.

Bud Korn of Richmond vs Johnny Woods, 145 pounds.

Kid Shadow of Wats Tract vs Young Mike Gibbons, 142 pounds.

Frankie Neil, Richmond resident and ex-bantamweight champ, who has yet to give a bad decision will referee all bouts.

CHARLES PADDOCK
Charles Paddock, the holder of many of the world's records for springtime is now in the movies. He will arrive in Oakland today to make his first appearance in front of the camera acting second lead in Bebe Daniels' newest picture "The Campus Flirt." Paddock will perform in the California oval which has been selected for the exterior of the picture which deals in college life.

GOLF
Today will see the opening of the British open golf championship at Sunningdale, England with Bobby Jones, George Von Elm, Watts Gunn and Roland McKenzie of the American Walker cup matches entering the event. According to reports from the course, young Jones is in the best of condition, having shot two 66's on Monday on one of the hardest courses in England.

HURLERS LEAVE
Following a banquet in their honor at the Hotel Whitcomb at San Francisco, the Tipperary hurlers, who are to play an all California team last Sunday, left for Hartford, Connecticut where they will stage their next game. Their farewell game in the United States will be played at New York, a return game.

LARRY RETURNS
Hurrah! Lynford Lary, of the Oaks who has been on the bench for some time with a badly spiked knee will enter the game against the Hollywood All-Stars at Oakland on Thursday. This is good news to the fans for Lary has been missed by all of the baseballites. Lary will take his old position at shortstop and in all possibilities Jimmy Cavenely will go to third sack. With the return of Lary the Oaks will have the strongest infield of the whole league.

TEX RICKARD
The boxing fans in an uproar, sitting on pins and needles waiting for Tex Rickard and the York state athletic commission to meet. The expected showdown, scheduled for yesterday, was postponed by Tex Rickard. Tex and the commission will meet some time and the sport pages will be crying bloody murder.

Greb Must Fight For Old Manager

NEW YORK, June 15.—Harry Greb, former middleweight champion pugilist, was enjoined today from boxing or engaging in any professional work except under the management of James M. Mason, of Pittsburgh.

Mason had brought suit against the fighter to restrain Greb from fighting except under his management. He had alleged Greb was under a two-year contract with him.

Greb contended in court that he was not in full knowledge of the terms of the agreement when he signed. The contract's terms gave the boxer 66 2-3 per cent of the receipts and Mason the balance.

The New York State Boxing commission at a hearing decided in favor of Greb, holding the contract null and void in this state.

Today's decision was given by Supreme Court Justice Charles Guy.

Local Girl to Attend Queen at Bridge Dedication

Miss Dolly Colclough has been selected to represent Richmond as an attendant to Miss Contra Costa at the Antioch bridge opening and Apricot Festival to be staged on Saturday and Sunday at Antioch.

Miss Colclough and other members of the queen's party will go to San Francisco today to select their regalia.

Other young ladies selected throughout the district to serve as attendants include: Misses Alice Perkins, Isleton; Irma Fraser, Rio Vista; Marion Smith, Concord; Albert Parker, Pittsburg; Margaret Davis, Antioch; Mary Bliss, Oakley and Jennie Cooper, Brentwood.

Martinez and Crockett girls have not been selected.

This evening Miss Colclough, accompanied by the other girls, who will make up the regal party, will be honored at a banquet at the Hotel Whitcomb in San Francisco. A ball in their honor is also on a program and they will be greeted by the city officials.

Peddlers Fight Is Endorsed by Foreign War Vets

David Thomas was taken into the Honor Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, when it met last night in the Memorial hall with Ralph Woods in the chair as commander.

The report of the convention held last month in Fresno was heard and the many events planned by the State organizations were discussed.

The local post went on record as backing the movement started by the Allied Council of War Veterans to stop the alleged sale of articles in Richmond by men who declare themselves members of veteran organizations.

The meeting was followed by an "Irish dinner" which was served under the direction of W. J. Macdonell, a new member; J. R. Kenyon and Bruce L. Hunt.

EYE BADLY INFLAMED

Oakland, Calif., Mar. 19, 1926
This is to certify that I had inflammation in my right eye so bad that I could bear no light and in the morning I could not see at all. I was troubled thus for many months. I then took the Fong Wan Herbs and the inflammation was completely reduced.

This was about three years ago. My eye has been in splendid condition ever since and has required no more doctoring.

My mother, who was troubled with High Blood Pressure, has also taken the Fong Wan Herbs and they have helped her marvelously.

PAPAL LEGATES TO LEAVE FOR SESSION TODAY

(By Universal Service)

By MARY SYMON (Copyright, 1926, Universal Service) NEW YORK, June 15.—Westward the mission of a Catholic papal legation will take its way today when the special train, bearing John, Cardinal Bonzano, papal legate to the twenty-eighth international eucharistic congress, Don Enrique Cardinal Dubois, primate of France, John, Cardinal Cernoch, primate of Hungary, Gustave, Cardinal Piffi, primate of Austria, and Patrick, Cardinal O'Donnell, primate of Ireland, will leave the Grand Central terminal in New York City at ten o'clock eastern standard time, bound for Chicago where it is scheduled to arrive at 7:15 a. m. central standard time Thursday.

The train, painted a bright red and composed of seven cars, consisted of the locomotive, which stopped for ten minutes at Albany and Utica, five minutes at Syracuse, and ten at Rochester, and Elkhart and South Bend, Indiana, passing through Cleveland and Toledo at a time when a reception is impossible. It will arrive in the Park Row station of the Michigan Central railroad where it will be met by George, Cardinal Mundelein.

The departure of the legation and its attending cardinals for the west will end a succession of receptions which became hectic today with the civic greetings accorded by the New York state and city authorities. All the way down from the residence of Cardinal Hayes, where Cardinal Bonzano came to join the party, and the Vanderbilt hotel, where the other cardinals have been guests, the motor cars of the legation passed through streets lined with hundreds of thousands of people. As the legation's party came to the Park Row station, the crowd caught sight of the magnificence of red and purple and gold of the eucharistic congress, which broke into a long vociferous rendition of "The Star-Spangled Banner" as the red-robed dignitaries, attended by archbishops, bishops, monsignors and priests, as well as by excited members of the New York Catholic club, strode up the steps and entered the governor's room where Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York greeted them, then preceded them into the council chamber of the hall.

Flopping upon the red-carpeted platform like scarlet tanglers, with Cardinal Bonzano taking the red-velvet chair in the center, the cardinals, listened to the greeting of the City of New York, given by Mayor James Walker, who pronounced the "spiritualistic" effect of the eucharistic congress, but who presented them with a scroll of the freedom of the city before he introduced Governor Smith.

The governor, after a formal welcome of the legation, took the cardinals into his confidence while he reminded them that they would pass tomorrow through the Mohawk Valley, which had been the water route to the west when Chicago was a trading post.

"There's a song," he told them, "called 'the sidewalks of New York.' The popular idea is that it belongs to me. I have two partners in it, though, the mayor and our own cardinals who were born down here not so far from the city hall, and not so long ago, at that. When you reach Chicago you will meet another man New York is proud of, Cardinal Mundelein has a big claim on New York, and we're glad to let him in on the fourth corner of our sidewalk brigade."

Cardinal Bonzano, answering the welcome, began by declaring his amazement at New York's material achievements of high buildings and rushing activities. He gave the blessing of his holiness, Pope Pius XI, to the people of the commonwealth and emphasized the interrelationship of Europe and America. The cardinal paid tribute to New York City and state saying: "Your state and city have given famous men to America, to the industries, to the arts, to law, to statesmanship, to priests, episcopal and cardinal offices in the church; and through nominal election, to the exalted office of the presidency of this great Republic."

Cardinal Bonzano was warmly applauded at this point in his address. "The culture of Europe reaches its highest expression in the Catholic church," he said, "and our attendance at the Eucharistic Congress will emphasize the history of the church. The congress has a two-fold aspect, however, for we not only greet Christ as the King, but as the man who suffered for humankind. The pomp and circumstance of the congress is but secondary to its deeper spiritual significance."

Cardinal Bonzano was attended by his own staff, among them, the resident knights of St. Gregory and Knights of Malta, as well as by the cardinals. He had come into New York from the Long Island estate at Roslyn of Nicholas E. Brady, which the Bradys have turned over to him during his New York visit. The party was also accompanied by the Right Reverend Edward F. Hoban, auxiliary bishop of Chicago, Monsignor C. F. Quille, the Reverend Francis A. Ryan, assistant chancellor of the Catholic case of Chicago, who are officially representing Cardinal Mundelein in the meeting of guests. Monsignor Thomas V. Shannon of the Church of St. Thomas the Apostle in Chicago, and a hundred churchmen from the New York archdiocese.

The crowd outside the city hall, which had been waiting for hours for the coming of the prelates, almost broke through the police lines in an attempt to get nearer to the cardinals, making Cardinal O'Donnell of Armagh their special goal as the white-haired came through the enclosure. Hundreds of women managed to evade the taut-drawn cordons and sink to their knees on the stone path for the cardinal's blessing. "It's Ireland they love," he explained mildly.

Cardinal O'Donnell will be the guest of honor at a dinner to be given by the American-Irish His-

The monthly whist of the St. Johns Catholic Church will be held at Huber Hall Saturday night.

Mrs. Frank MacDermott is in charge of the arrangements.

Ten Cent Cut in City Taxes May Be Possible Here

As no major appropriations which would increase the tax rate for the coming year have appeared, city officials are looking forward to a ten cent cut in the city tax rate.

Under the terms of the proposed leasing of the harbor to the Terminal company of Oakland, there is a clause calling for the appropriation of $25,000 annually for harbor maintenance. Last year an appropriation of $45,000 was necessary for the purpose of dredging the harbor. This amount necessitated a tax of twenty cents on each $100. As this item is not to appear on the new budget which allows for the $25,000 appropriation.

TELLS COURT OF ATTACK BY OLD FRIENDS

(By Universal Service)

By RAY QUISNO (Copyright, 1926, Universal Service) SYCAMORE, Ill., June 15.—Dorothy Westervelt today told her story of the attack made upon her by three chums of her childhood, told it in every lurid detail before a crowd that packed the courtroom to the last inch of standing room.

It was a story that left them gasping. "Do you recognize those youths in this courtroom?" State's Attorney Cassius Poust asked. "Yes," answered the 21-year-old coed of the Northern Illinois Teachers' College, and she jerked her finger at them as they looked at her as if she were aiming a pistol.

"There's Emerson Wilson; There's Stanley Yurt," then, with changing inflection as her finger settled on the other, "there's that Leiford Rich."

On the afternoon of April 11, she related, she was visiting at the home of a chum, Lillian Gray, in Dekalb. The three youths drove up in Rich's car, and invited the girls for a ride.

"I had known them since childhood. The car was so crowded I had to sit on Rich's lap. He began to get fresh, right away and I scolded him."

A question was interposed as to the conduct of Miss Gray and Wilson.

"They were sitting at the other end of the seat," said Miss Westervelt. "I heard Lillian scold him and he said: 'I guess I better be good.'"

Miss Gray got out at her home, Miss Westervelt continued, and she (the witness) asked that she be taken home, too, but the boys drove on to the outskirts of Dekalb and the car halted.

"Hurt and Wilson went away and left me alone with Rich," she said. "I had to fight to save myself. He swore dreadfully, (her lips made the oath, as she repeated them, seem doubly startling). 'I gave him an awful talking to.'"

Later Hurt returned alone and insulted her; then came Wilson. Accidentally she bumped one of his fingers, which had been injured, and he hit her on the jaw.

Later the car was started again, and she begged to be taken home, declaring she would "walk" 20 miles rather than stay in such company." The pleas were disregarded.

In an isolated place, she said, the machine again was halted and she was attacked by the three.

Eventually, early in the morning, her clothes torn and her body bruised, she was thrown out of the car in front of her chum's home and the latter's mother, Mrs. Lydia Gray, helped her inside.

In the cross examination of Miss Westervelt, Attorney Harvey Gussel of the defense counsel sought to draw the implication that the boys had been misled by the girl's demeanor, and, as in the Arthur Rich case at Battle Creek, Mich., the modern girl's attire came in for reference.

The clothes Miss Westervelt wore that night—slippers, hose, dress, lingerie, coat—were draped over the edge of the jury box, in which, of course, there was no jury, the boys having pleaded guilty.

tion for harbor maintenance, a ten cent tax which is believed will take care of the amount, there will be a saving to the city of a tax of ten cents on each $100 for the next year.

The annual appropriation of $25,000, according to the terms of the lease, would be cumulative if unused until $100,000 accrued, when the appropriation would stop until the need for replenishing occurred, the appropriation would stop until any emergency such as the one faced by the city last year when the necessity of dredging the harbor arose.

The creation of a fund for this purpose is held practicable whether or not the harbor is leased to the Port Terminal company.

The probability of a demand for an increase in pay for firemen and policemen was admitted by city officials yesterday. City Manager James A. McVittie admitted that he had been approached on the subject, but stated that no definite proposal had been submitted.

City officials stated the present basic pay of $160 a month, received by patrolmen and firemen compared favorably with the scale maintained in other cities and is regarded as being a fair wage.

Green Censors General Strikes At Rotary Club

(By Universal Service)

DENVER, June 15.—General strikes, with their paralyzing grip on a nation's industry, were condemned today by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor. He declared they are against the principles of Union Labor in this country.

Speaking before the Rotary International, Green declared: "So far as I can influence the policies of the great organization, no general strike will ever be experimented with where such strike would involve the violation and abrogation of wage agreements."

"The American Federation of Labor regards a contract between employers and employees as a solemn obligation which must be religiously observed and honorably discharged."

"A strict adherence by labor to this policy of contract observance would preclude the probability of a general strike. To engage in such an undertaking would mean that the federation would depart from its traditional policy and destroy the confidence which has been reposed in it by the American people."

Green said that a general strike changes an industrial conflict to a contest between employees and the government. Real issues are lost sight of and untold suffering results, making most difficult the adjustment of the real grievances.

MARIE JENNEY BEATEN IN N.Y. CUP MATCHES

(By Universal Service)

RYE, N. Y., June 15.—Miss Maureen O'Connell, New York University student and former eastern champion, is the outstanding figure in the Womens Metropolitan Golf Championship tonight and not Miss Marie Jenney, of the Hudson river club.

Miss Jenney, the girl who was Metropolitan champion before high noon today and who played so cleverly the day previous when she won the qualifying medal on the Westchester Biltmore's exacting and lengthy west course, is no longer a competitor. Her defense of her title today in the first round matches was so weak that she became an easy victim of Mrs. Cortlandt Smith, of Glen Ridge, N. J., who defeated her 4 up and three to play.

On the other hand, Maureen O'Connell gave an unmistakable display of that high calibre play that won her the eastern title two years ago. In overcoming so strong a competitor as Mrs. Dorothy Higbee Tracy, former Chicago girl and runner-up for the Western

El Cerrito Plans San Pablo Paving

Plans and specifications for the improvement of San Pablo avenue from the city hall to the northern city limits were adopted by the trustees of El Cerrito at their meeting Monday night.

The proposed work will consist of the paving of San Pablo avenue on both sides of the highway which will make the entire width of the avenue in first class condition. Bids on the work will probably be called for the latter part of July.
